

Introduction

New U Life® Founder, Alexy Goldstein, thinks you deserve better skin care. He believes it so much, in fact, that he rejects that term. You don't need the decades-old technology and lagging advancement of skin care - you need the innovation of a true skin solution. Rose & Cole is that solution.

Your skin is as unique as you are; its character is affected by many factors like DNA makeup, diet, gender, region, environment, lifestyle, and UV exposure.

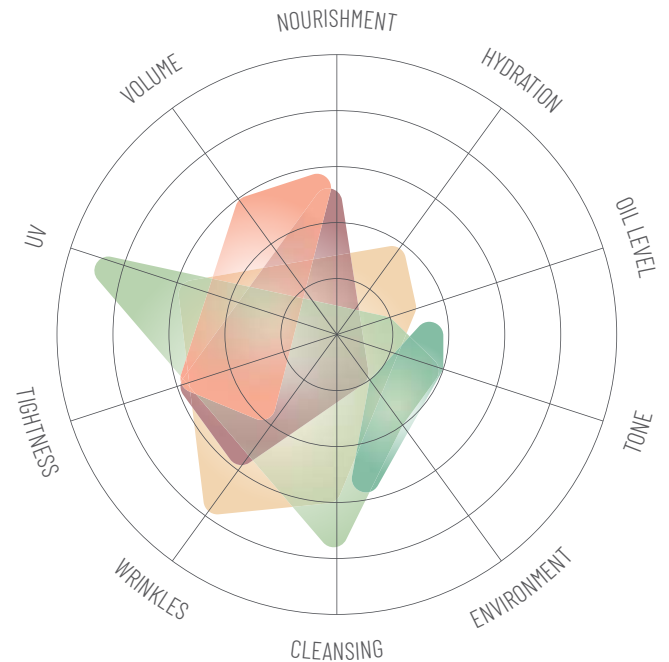

Yesterday's skincare approaches ignore these unique factors and follow a "one size fits all" regimen. This type of skincare defines skin by its flaws and only aims to treat surface-level symptoms.

With Rose & Cole, we define your skin by its strengths. Rose & Cole features blends that have been meticulously researched, ensuring that only the highest standard of ingredients, with clinical data behind them, were included. This blend contains a league of 'Hero' ingredients that cater to several unique skin features instead of just one, providing you with a personalized solution. Rose & Cole provides an elevated skin solution that delivers ingredients where they've never been before. Rose & Cole features plant-based ingredients paired with SomaTech™ transdermal technology that drives ingredients past the skin's surface to address the sources of aging. Rose & Cole is designed to Challenge the way you age™! Rose & Cole breathes confidence and youth into your skin to enhance the way you age. This influences how you feel about the world around you.

What is a DermaType™?

DermaType technology is New U Life's proprietary Innovative process that identifies the activity levels of your skin's protective functions and classifies your needs according to your true skin type. These protective functions include:

-  Skin moisture barrier: Your skin moisture barrier is affected by two factors, how well your skin can lock in hydration and how fast moisture leaves the skin.
-  Collagen content: A protein in the body responsible for healthy structural framework (skin elasticity and joints).
-  Lipid content: Part of the composition of the outer skin layer, lipids play a role in maintaining a healthy skin barrier which determines how healthy and even skin looks.
-  Melanin: Produced by cells called melanocytes, Melanin is a pigment that gives the skin color.
-  Sebaceous Gland: This is your skin's function gland for producing oil. While some oil is a good thing for your skin, excessive oil is not.

How Do I Define My DermaType™?

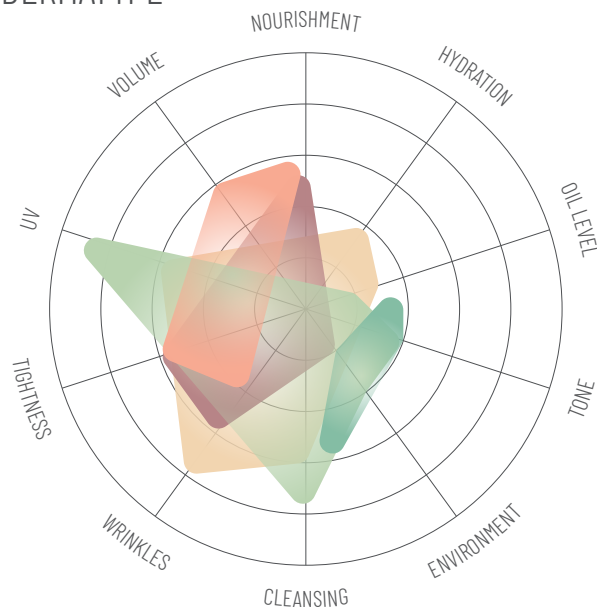

Rose & Cole uses proprietary DermaType technology to classify your skin's activity level of its protective functions. DermaType technology goes above and beyond the typical skin classification. Each DermaType requires a unique solution of ingredient blends tailored to your skin for unmatched skin quality and appearance.

The two DermaTypes are Photosensitive and Photoreactive.

Our regimens have been developed to provide blends catered to unique DermaType to address your unique concerns for YOUR skin.

What is SomaTech™?

SomaTech is a proprietary technology that takes ingredients deeper into the skin for enhanced benefits. This technology is fused into the Rose & Cole Preserve formulas to provide comprehensive protection and youth preserving benefits. SomaTech employs a proprietary process which enables delivery of water-soluble, oil-soluble, and solid-particle active ingredients effectively to the lower levels of your skin.

This technology provides superior performance compared to conventional skincare topicals that may deliver lower levels of beneficial active ingredients. This same principle is what makes New U Life's SomaDerm® such a standout product. Through technological innovation, New U Life is at the forefront of ensuring that your body can take advantage of the full range of benefits from our powerful ingredient blends.
